

NSLDS Financial Aid History

CHAPTER 2

Students who have previously attended other colleges may have a financial aid history that affects their eligibility for FSA funds at your school. You can review a student's financial aid history by using the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) online at www.nslsdfap.ed.gov; for questions call 1-800-999-8219. NSLDS will also help you track changes to the student's financial aid history through the postscreening and transfer student monitoring processes.

NSLDS FINANCIAL AID HISTORY

A person generally isn't eligible for FSA funds if he is in default on an FSA loan or he owes an overpayment on an FSA grant or loan and he has not made a repayment arrangement for the default or overpayment. Also, for a parent to receive a PLUS Loan, neither the parent nor the student may be in default or owe an overpayment on an FSA loan or grant (though having a parent in default on a PLUS Loan does not make a student ineligible for aid). Exceptions to these general rules are noted in the discussion that follows.

Any student applying for FSA funds must certify that he isn't in default on any FSA loan and doesn't owe an overpayment on any FSA grant, or that he has made satisfactory arrangements to repay the overpayment or default. This certification statement is printed on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

A student is also ineligible if she inadvertently exceeded annual or aggregate loan limits. She can regain eligibility by repaying the extra amount borrowed or making arrangements, satisfactory to the loan holder, to repay it. See Volume 4 of the FSA Handbook for more details.

A student who has been convicted of, or has pled no contest or guilty to, a crime involving fraud in obtaining FSA funds must have completely repaid the fraudulently obtained funds to the Department or the loan holder before regaining aid eligibility. Any Perkins or Direct Loan so obtained is not eligible for rehabilitation. You can handle this requirement as you would a judgment lien: you don't need to collect certification from each student but can deal with the situation when you become aware of it.

Finally, a student is ineligible if his property is subject to a judgment lien for a debt owed to the United States, and a parent can't receive a PLUS Loan if either the student or parent is subject to such a lien. For example, if the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) had placed a lien on a student's property for failure to pay a federal tax debt or make satisfactory arrangements for repayment, the student would be ineligible for federal student aid.

Judgment lien example

When Charlotte provides her parents' tax return to the aid administrator at Branstad College, he notices that they've reported business income but didn't report a business asset on the FAFSA. Charlotte explains that they didn't report the business as an asset because there's a lien against the business for a federal loan. The aid administrator tells her that the asset must still be reported and that her parents won't be able to borrow a PLUS Loan as long as they are subject to the lien.

Adding a school and the NSLDS match

When a school is added after the FAFSA has been submitted, the FAFSA goes through the NSLDS match again rather than being processed in real time. This ensures that the new school receives the latest financial aid history (FAH) on the transaction. This does not affect schools' responsibility to use transfer student monitoring.

To supplement the ISIR and ensure a student's history is considered, some schools submit entire rosters of FAH requests. See the TSM/FAH processes and batch file layouts posted on the IFAP website at the NSLDS Reference Materials link under Processing Resources.

When the FAFSA is processed, the Central Processing System (CPS) matches the student against the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) to see if she is in default, owes an overpayment, or has exceeded the loan limits. The CPS doesn't perform any matches to determine whether or not the student is subject to a judgment lien for a federal debt, and your school is not required to check for such liens. However, if you know that she is subject to such a lien, you can't pay her FSA funds.

NSLDS MATCH

To help your school identify students with problems such as defaulted loans or overpayments, the CPS matches the student's FAFSA information with her financial aid history in the NSLDS database. Your school must resolve any conflicts between NSLDS and other information you have about the student before disbursing FSA funds (for example, if NSLDS shows that a student isn't in default but you have documentation showing that she is in default).

The results of the NSLDS match are provided on the SAR and ISIR on the NSLDS Financial Aid History page. As with other matches, a "C" next to the student's expected family contribution (EFC) indicates problems that must be resolved. See Appendix B of the ISIR Guide for the complete tables of NSLDS match results.

Successful match

The SAR and ISIR will contain the NSLDS financial aid history only if the student's identifying information matches the database and there is relevant information for the student in the database. If the student has no defaults or overpayments or has made satisfactory repayment arrangements on a defaulted loan, the NSLDS match flag will be 1 and no C code will appear on the output document. A match flag of 2, 3, or 4 indicates that the student has defaulted loans or owes an overpayment or both. You will need to document that the problem has been resolved before disbursing aid.

Note that for "real-time" processing—if a student uses Corrections on the Web or an aid administrator uses FAA Access to CPS Online—the CPS does not match against the NSLDS database (except when a school is added; see the sidebar), but the output document will show NSLDS data from the last transaction that did match against NSLDS. The ISIR might not, therefore, reflect the most current information.

No data from match

There are several reasons why an output document may not have financial aid history information (for example, if the application was rejected for lack of a signature or if identifying information was missing). For other cases, you can check the NSLDS flags reported in the "FAA Information" section.

▼ Partial match. If the student’s SSN is in the NSLDS database but the first name or date of birth don’t match what the student reported, no financial aid history will be reported and the output document will have an NSLDS match flag of “7” and a C code. There will also be a comment explaining why the financial aid history isn’t given and directing the student to work with the school to resolve any discrepancies. A partial match requires resolution; otherwise you won’t have information from the Department on defaults and overpayments.

If the student originally reported incorrect identifying information, your financial aid administrator can have her submit correct information, which will be sent through the match again.

If the student did not submit incorrect identifying information, you can call the NSLDS customer support center (see sidebar), for help with determining the identifiers with the SSN in the NSLDS database. If your financial aid office discovers the discrepancy is due to the student misreporting the name or date of birth on the FAFSA, it should have the student make a correction. However, your school may use the NSLDS record to determine the student’s eligibility; you don’t need to wait for the corrected data to be reported.

If your financial aid office finds that the financial aid history associated with the student’s SSN doesn’t belong to the student, it should assume that the student has no relevant financial aid information. The financial aid office may request that the data in NSLDS be corrected by providing relevant supporting documents. NSLDS will work with the previous data providers to correct the identifiers. The financial aid office isn’t required to request a correction; however, doing so will prevent the same FAFSA response in subsequent award years.

▼ Student not in database. If a match with NSLDS is completed but there’s no information on the student in the database, the output document will comment that the student’s SSN is not associated with any financial aid history. Your financial aid office can assume this is correct unless it has conflicting information. If it believes NSLDS should show a loan history, it should help the student by contacting the appropriate loan servicer or, for FFEL, guaranty agency.

▼ No relevant history. If a student’s SSN matches a record in the NSLDS database but there’s no relevant financial aid history to report, no information will be on the output document. For example, if the only data for a student was about a Pell grant received in the previous award year, that would not be reported because it isn’t needed to determine the student’s aid eligibility for the current award year. The SAR and ISIR will have a comment that the student’s record was matched with NSLDS but no information was found to print on the NSLDS page.

NSLDS Customer Support Center (800) 999-8219

Example of misreported information on the FAFSA

When Krieger University (KU) receives Tod’s ISIR, it shows that there was a discrepancy with the NSLDS database, and so no financial aid history information is provided. The aid administrator at KU asks Tod if he provided the correct name and birth date on the application. Tod says he wrote in the wrong month for his birth date, but his name is correct. The administrator checks the NSLDS database using Tod’s first name, SSN, and date of birth. NSLDS shows the correct birth date, but the first name of the student is Warren, not Tod. She checks again with Tod, who explains that Tod is a nickname and Warren is his real name. The administrator determines that the financial aid history associated with the SSN belongs to Tod. She could disburse aid without requiring a correction, but Tod has other corrections to make, so she will wait for the ISIR correction before disbursing aid.

Example of incorrect NSLDS data

Lydia is a first-year undergraduate at Bennet College and has never attended college before. When Bennet receives Lydia’s ISIR, it shows that there was a partial match, and there is some data associated with her SSN. Bennet checks with NSLDS and learns that a guaranty agency is reporting a loan made years ago (when Lydia was in elementary school) under her SSN but with a completely different name and birth date. Bennet determines that this isn’t Lydia’s loan, so she has no financial aid history in NSLDS. Bennet also suggests that Lydia provide documentation that the SSN belongs to her so the school can request that NSLDS data be corrected to prevent problems for her later.

▼ Processing problem. If there was a problem with the match, the SAR and ISIR won't include financial aid history information. The output document will have a C code and a comment explaining that the CPS couldn't determine whether the student has loans in default and will direct her to contact the financial aid administrator. Your aid office must get the student's financial aid history before disbursing aid. If she has to make corrections of any kind, her information will go through the match again when the corrections are submitted, and your aid office can use the results of that match to determine her eligibility.

Postscreening—changes after initial match

Once your school receives the financial aid history through NSLDS, your school isn't required to check for changes to the data before disbursing funds to the student. But if your school learns, from NSLDS or another source, that the student was not or is no longer eligible, you must not disburse any more FSA funds and must help make sure the student arranges to repay the aid for which he or she was not eligible.

NSLDS uses a postscreening process to let you know when there are significant changes (such as a defaulted loan or an overpayment) to a student's financial aid history. If postscreening identifies changes that may affect the student's eligibility, the CPS will generate new output documents so schools that are listed for receipt of the student's FAFSA information will automatically be notified. Items that have changed since the last transaction are marked on the output document with a “#” sign, and the reason code for the postscreening will be given.

To help your school identify when NSLDS data has changed, the document will include an NSLDS transaction number in the “FAA Information” section with the other match flags. This is the number of the last transaction on which NSLDS data changed, so if your school receives an ISIR on which that number is higher than the one on the ISIR it used to determine the student's eligibility, it must review the NSLDS data on the new ISIR to be sure there are no changes affecting the student's eligibility. There will be postscreening codes (see The ISIR Guide for the list) to help determine what changed.

Transfer student monitoring

Dear Partner Letters GEN-00-12 and GEN-01-09

Through this process for checking the eligibility of transfer students, you may either check the student's financial aid history on the NSLDS website for professionals, or wait seven days (because NSLDS issues alerts weekly) after you've submitted the student's information for monitoring to receive an alert if data has changed.

NSLDSFAP

CHECKING THE FINANCIAL AID HISTORY FOR TRANSFER STUDENTS

Before disbursing FSA funds to a transfer student, your financial aid office must obtain his financial aid history if he may have received aid at another school since your latest ISIR. The NSLDS Transfer Student Monitoring Process was established to allow schools to use NSLDS information for its transfer students.

▼ Reviewing the student's NSLDS financial aid history. If a student transfers to your school during the award year, your school will need to review her aid history on the ISIR or online at the NSLDS website. From this, it can determine:

- Whether the student is in default or owes an overpayment on an FSA loan or grant;
- The student's Pell Grant and the amount already disbursed for the award year;
- Data pertaining to TEACH Grants, including those converted to loans;
- The student's balance on all FSA loans; and
- The amount and period of enrollment for all FSA loans for the award year.

Usually the financial aid history on the ISIR will be enough, but there are cases where your financial aid office might check NSLDS for more information. For example, if the student has more than six loans, the ISIR won't have detailed information for some of the loans. If your financial aid office needs that level of detail for those loans, it can get the information from NSLDS. Or it might need to use NSLDS to resolve a partial match situation.

▼ Transfer student monitoring process. Your school must send NSLDS identifying information for students transferring to your school during the award year so that NSLDS can notify the school of changes to their financial aid history. Your financial aid office may send information for students who have expressed an interest in attending your school even if they have not yet formally applied for admission.

Through transfer student monitoring, NSLDS will alert you to any relevant changes in the transfer student's financial aid history—other than the default and overpayment information reported in the postscreening process—that may affect the student's current award(s). There are three steps: inform, monitor, and alert.

- Inform. Your financial aid office must identify students who are transferring to your school by creating a list of transfer students on the NSLDS website or by sending the list to NSLDS as an electronic batch file (see the margin note) through SAIG. Your school may use either or both methods, and a change in method does not require prior notification to the CSC.

Getting the student's financial aid history

There are several ways for you to get a student's financial aid history from NSLDS. You can:

- use the NSLDS Financial Aid History section of the ISIR;
- log on to the NSLDS Professional Access website and access the data online for a student;
- for multiple students, use the FAT 001 Web report, which you submit from the Reports tab on the NSLDS site (you retrieve the results through the SAIG); or
- send a batch TSM/FAH Inform file to request aid history data for several students, which will be returned in either extract or report format through SAIG. The TSM/FAH processes and batch file layouts are posted on the IFAP website at the NSLDS reference materials link under Processing Resources.

Sending batch files

To begin sending batch files, you must sign up at www.fsawebenroll.ed.gov for the Transfer Student Monitoring/Financial Aid History (TSM/FAH) batch service. Then you must designate a profile for your school on the School Transfer Profile Page (www.nslidsfap.ed.gov) prior to creating any Inform records. The School Transfer Profile tells NSLDS who will be submitting Inform files from or on behalf of your school and how your school wants to receive an alert notice.

Re-populate Transfer Monitoring List

NSLDS Professional Access offers a Transfer Monitoring Re-populate web page that enables you to re-populate your TSM list of students from the Inform list used during a prior monitoring period so you can continuously add from one monitoring time period to another. For more information see NSLDS Newsletter 23.

Resolving grant overpayments

Because FSA grants have priority in packaging, aid overpayments can often be resolved by adjusting other types of aid in the package. If necessary, you can also adjust later grant payments for the same award year. But if a student receives more grant money than she is eligible for and the excess can't be offset, she must return the overpayment. As noted at the beginning of the chapter, a student with an outstanding FSA grant overpayment is ineligible for aid until she repays it or makes satisfactory repayment arrangements. See FSA Handbook, Volume 5 for a complete discussion of resolving overpayments and overawards.

- Monitor. NSLDS will monitor these students for a change in financial aid history that may affect their current awards and alert your school when: a new loan or grant is being awarded, a new disbursement is made on a loan or grant, or a loan or grant (or a single disbursement) is cancelled. Note that defaulted loans and overpayment information are not monitored in transfer student monitoring, as they are already covered in the postscreening process. If the student has not listed your school in Step 6 when filing the FAFSA, he has to add your school in order for you to receive the postscreening information.
- Alert. Finally, if changes are detected for one or more of your students and NSLDS creates an alert, it will also send an e-mail notification reminder to the address given on the School Transfer Profile setup page. Your school's designated contact person may then either review the alert list on the NSLDS for Financial Aid Professionals website or download a batch file, if batch alerts were requested, through SAIG in report or extract format.

▼ Timing of the disbursement. To pay the student you'll need to have an output document and an accurate EFC. A valid ISIR will include that and the student's financial aid history, and it will also tell your school if he is in default or owes an overpayment. The postscreening process will send your school another ISIR if he subsequently goes into or out of default or owes or ceases to owe an overpayment.

When your financial aid office initiates transfer monitoring for a student, NSLDS will alert it to significant award changes since you last received an ISIR or alert for her; this will continue for 30 to 120 days (depending on the monitoring duration you've established) after the enrollment begin date. If your financial aid office starts transfer monitoring before it receives ISIRs for a student, NSLDS will track changes in her financial aid history from the date of the request or a future monitoring begin date chosen by your school.

The regulations state that a school may not make a disbursement to the student for seven days following the transfer monitoring request to NSLDS, unless it receives an earlier response from NSLDS or checks the student's current financial aid history by accessing NSLDS directly. Therefore, it's usually a good idea to submit the student's name to NSLDS for monitoring as soon as possible, even if he has not yet decided to enroll at your school.

▼ Consequences when a transfer student subsequently is found to be ineligible for all or part of an aid disbursement. If the school has followed the proper procedures for obtaining financial aid history information from NSLDS, it is not liable for any overpayments if the student's situation subsequently changes. However, the student will be liable for the overpayment in this situation, and you may not pay the student further FSA funds until the overpayment is resolved. (See FSA Handbook, Volume 4 for information on resolving overpayments.)

Total and permanent disability discharge

Perkins: 674.61(b)

DL: 685.213

Dear Colleague Letters GEN-02-03 and GEN-09-07

EFFECT OF BANKRUPTCY OR DISABILITY DISCHARGE

A student who has filed for bankruptcy or had a loan discharged for disability may need to give additional documentation before receiving aid.

Bankruptcy

A student with an FSA loan or grant overpayment that has been discharged in bankruptcy remains eligible for FSA loans, grants, and work-study (NSLDS loan status code BC for loans that did not default, and status code DK or OD for loans that defaulted prior to the bankruptcy discharge). A borrower doesn't have to reaffirm a loan discharged in bankruptcy in order to be eligible. The Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 prohibits denial of aid based solely on filing for, or having a debt discharged in, bankruptcy.

A borrower who lists a defaulted FSA loan or grant overpayment in an active bankruptcy claim is not eligible for further FSA funds unless she provides you with documentation from the holder of the debt stating it is dischargeable (NSLDS loan status code DO).

A borrower who includes a non-defaulted FSA loan in an active bankruptcy claim, so that collection on the loan is stayed, is eligible for aid as long as he has no loans in default (including the stayed loan).

Total and permanent disability discharge

Perkins, FFEL, and Direct Loan borrowers may qualify to have their loans discharged if they become totally and permanently disabled. Except for veterans who qualify for a total and permanent disability (TPD) discharge based on a determination by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) that they are unemployable due to a service-connected disability, the Department of Education monitors the status of borrowers who have received a TPD discharge for a three-year period.

Borrowers whose discharge applications are received on or after July 1, 2010, receive a final discharge followed by a post-discharge monitoring period that begins on the date the discharge was granted and lasts for up to three years. Borrowers whose discharge applications were received before July 1, 2010, received a conditional discharge followed by a conditional discharge period that begins on the date the borrower's physician certified the disability discharge application and lasts for up to three years.

If the borrower does not meet certain eligibility requirements throughout the post-discharge monitoring period or conditional discharge period, the Department reinstates the borrower's obligation to repay the discharged loan(s) or returns the conditionally discharged loan(s) to repayment status.

The same criteria and procedures are used to discharge and reinstate the service obligation for TEACH Grant recipients who become totally and permanently disabled.

Total and permanent disability

The condition of an individual who: is unable to engage in substantial gainful activity by reason of a medically determinable physical or mental impairment that can be expected to result in death; has lasted for a continuous period of at least 60 months or can be expected to last for a continuous period of at least 60 months; OR has been determined by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) to be unemployable due to a service-connected disability.

Substantial gainful activity

The phrase "substantial gainful activity" means a level of work performed for pay that involves doing significant physical or mental activities or a combination of both. If a physician's certification does not appear to support this status, the school should contact the physician for clarification.

Example: documenting loan "paid in full"

Eddy had a Stafford Loan as an undergraduate that went into default while he was out of school. When he applies for financial aid so he can go to graduate school, his ISIR shows that the loan is still in default. Eddy tells the aid administrator at the graduate school that he paid off the loan last year. The aid administrator asks Eddy to bring in a letter from the guaranty agency documenting that the loan has been paid and advises Eddy that he should ask the guaranty agency to update his status in NSLDS.

No defense of infancy

Students who are minors may receive federal student loans, and they may not refuse to repay those loans based on a "defense of infancy," (i.e., that they were too young to enter into the contract of signing the promissory note). See HEA Sec 484A(b) (2).

Perkins write-offs

Note that Perkins write-offs don't make a student ineligible. See FSA Handbook Volume 6 for more information.

Other ways of reestablishing eligibility for Perkins Loans

A provision in the Perkins Loan Program reestablishes the borrower's eligibility if she meets any of the conditions that would remove her Perkins loan from the school's cohort default rate. This provision only allows the borrower to regain eligibility for Perkins Loans, not the other FSA programs. See Volume 6, Chapter 6, FSA Handbook.

Satisfactory repayment and rehabilitation

HEA Sec. 428F(a) and (b), 464(h)(1) and (2)

General Provisions: 34 CFR 668.35(a)(2)

Perkins: 34 CFR 674.9(j), 674.39

FFEL: 34 CFR 682.200(b), 682.405

DL: 34 CFR 685.102(b), 685.211(f)

Rehabilitation example

Eric makes the nine payments required for rehabilitation of his defaulted loan. His original lender isn't handling student loans anymore, so the guarantor finds another lender to purchase the loan. It takes the guarantor three months to arrange the purchase, and Eric needs to keep making the agreed-on payments on time. Once the new lender has the rehabilitated loan, Eric can apply for an in-school deferment.

If a borrower whose prior loan was discharged due to a total and permanent disability wishes to take out another FSA loan or wishes to receive a TEACH Grant, he must obtain a physician's certification (The student only needs to obtain the physician certification once; the school keeps a copy of it in the student's file. But the school must collect a new borrower acknowledgment from the student each time he receives a new loan.) that he has the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity, and he must sign a statement acknowledging that the new FSA loan or the TEACH Grant service obligation can't later be discharged for any present impairment unless it deteriorates so that he is again totally and permanently disabled.

If the borrower requests a new loan or TEACH Grant during the post-discharge monitoring period or the conditional discharge period, he must also resume payment on the old loan before receipt of the new loan or TEACH Grant. If the loan on which the borrower must resume payment was in default when it was discharged or conditionally discharged, it remains in default upon reinstatement, and the student must make satisfactory repayment arrangements before receiving the new loan, in addition to meeting the other requirements described.

A borrower who received a TPD discharge based on a determination from the VA that he is unemployable due to a service-connected disability is not subject to a monitoring period and is not required to resume payment on the discharged loan as a condition for receiving a new loan. But he must still provide the physician's certification and borrower acknowledgement described above.

RESOLVING DEFAULT STATUS

A student in default on an FSA loan can't receive further FSA funds until she resolves the default, which she can do in a few ways.

▼ Repayment in full (including consolidation). A student can resolve a default and regain eligibility for FSA funds by repaying the loan in full (loan status code DP). If the school writes off a regulatorily permissible amount that the student repays, that counts as paying the loan in full (code DC). If a defaulted loan is successfully consolidated, it is also counted as paid in full (code DN). However, if the loan holder just writes off the entire loan (except for Perkins), it isn't paid in full, and the student remains ineligible for FSA funds (code DW).

The student regains eligibility whether repayment was completed voluntarily or involuntarily (that is, through IRS offset or wage garnishment). A student who has repaid her defaulted loan in full is eligible for aid if the repayment was voluntary. However, your financial aid office can still consider the default to be evidence of a student's unwillingness to repay loans and deny the student Perkins Loans. If the repayment was involuntary, your financial aid office should consider the default as such evidence and deny the student Perkins Loans.

If a student has paid a defaulted loan in full but the SAR and ISIR have a comment showing that he is ineligible because of the default, he must give your financial aid office documentation proving that the loan was paid.

▼ Satisfactory repayment arrangements. A student in default on an FSA loan can be eligible for FSA funds if he has made repayment arrangements that are satisfactory to the loan holder. After he makes six consecutive, full, voluntary payments on time, he regains eligibility for FSA funds (loan status code DX). Voluntary payments are those made directly by the borrower and do not include payments obtained by federal offset, garnishment, or income or asset execution. A student may regain eligibility under this option only one time.

Your school can pay the student as soon as you have documentation that she has made satisfactory repayment arrangements. For example, the guaranty agency may update the code for the loan in NSLDS to DX once six payments have been made; you could then use that as confirmation of the repayment arrangement. Your school may also use a written statement from the loan holder indicating that the student has made satisfactory repayment arrangements as documentation of the arrangement.

▼ Loan rehabilitation. Although a student can regain eligibility for all FSA funds by making satisfactory repayment arrangements, the loan is still in default. After the student makes more payments, the loan may be rehabilitated, that is, it won't be in default anymore, and the student will have all the normal loan benefits, such as deferments. A loan is rehabilitated once the borrower makes nine full, voluntary payments on time (no later than 20 days after the due date) within 10 consecutive months. See Volume 6, Chapter 6 of the FSA Handbook for more information on rehabilitation in the Perkins/NDSL program.
